Introducing the second edition of

The Redwood Review

A literary collection from the Third Thursday Writers' Group of Newport, Rhode Island

The Redwood Review is a showcase for the work of the Third Thursday Writers' Group, which meets at 6 p.m. on the third Thursday of every month at the Redwood Library & Athenæum. Copies of the periodical are made available for free at various locations in the area of Newport, RI, including shops, hotels, bed and breakfasts, doctors' offices, salons, restaurants, galleries, cafés, libraries, and museums, among others. The review is also online at <http://redwoodreview.timshelarts.com>.

The contributors included in the summer 2003 edition of the review are:

Heide Atkins
Gary Bolstridge
Len DeAngelis
Lori Dillman
Zona Douthit
Mark Ellis

Melissa Martin Ellis
Bill Goetzinger
Stephen S. Hale
Anne DuBose Joslin
Justin Katz
Denise Lussier

Ingrid Mathews
Andrew McNabb
Christine L. Mullen
A. Valentine Smith
Janette van de Geest Van Gruisen

To help pay for the substantial printing costs for the perfect-bound book, the group has made space available for the placement of advertisements as follows:

2.175 inches

There are eight 2 x 2.175in. blocks available on each advertising page. Black-and-white ads on the internal pages are $65 per block. Color ads on the inside back cover are $75 per block. We would like to sell the back cover as one ad space for $1,000.

All prices include online ads, distributed proportionally among the individual pages (one block = one share of the available space). The color ads appear across the top of the Web pages, also distributed proportionally to their size in the book, and the back cover ad will appear on the home page.

Ad design is available free of charge.

To reserve an ad space, or for more information, please contact Justin Katz at (401) 835-7156 or jkatz@timshelarts.com.
